

FREE Pandemic Remediation Resources

A number of individuals and companies have made their materials, programs and knowledge available to parents, teachers, and tutors for free during these unprecedented times. I decided to collate these resources and share them as a list, so that people who work with students with a wide array of learning differences can be aware of what is currently available online for no charge.

Please feel free to contact me at contact@wiseowlservices.org if you are aware of resources I haven't included that are being made available for free, for the duration of the pandemic. I am also including information, at the end of this list, of a free resource I am planning to produce myself.

Many thanks,

Lorna Wooldridge

1. Really Great Reading Really Great Reading have created a series of new webinars and expanded their virtual professional development options. You can view these here. They are constantly adding to their Home Connection page which provides student practice tools and activities. This page also includes a Teacher/Parent crash-course video, letter tile free play and more. They are regularly adding to these free resources.
2. Learning Without Tears Learning Without Tears are offering free access for 90 days to their Interactive Teaching Tools for Pre-K through 5th Grade, and Keyboarding Without Tears for Grades K-5 is available at no cost for teachers until July 31st 2020. Families can gain free access by contacting customer services.

3. HearBuilder is offering an extended free trial of their online computer program until June 30th 2020. The program includes Phonological Awareness, Auditory Memory, Following Directions, and Sequencing
4. The Writing Revolution are offering a series of free webinars called “Tips With TWR.” By filling out information at this link, you can view recordings of these webinars as well as viewing other resources they are making available free.
5. Peter Bowers is offering free, open-ended, on-line Structured Word Inquiry sessions (Kids with adults are welcome). Take this link to discover more.
6. Social Thinking have made Read Aloud Books and Thinksheets, video lessons, articles, and pre-recorded webinars available for free.
7. A Roadmap for Remediation. Lorna has created two webinars on this topic. These are not free, but the final part of the series, currently in the planning stages, will be free. This series will help you as a teacher, tutor, or determined parent, to create a “Roadmap for Remediation,” for your struggling readers and writers.
